

Final Reflection

We have spent about 15 weeks together learning about different theories in the field of Educational Psychology. In addition, you participated in about 22 hours of field placement. During your diversity research project, you found several different research studies and data related to diversity in America. Among those studies, I want you to choose and read two or three papers that interest you, a future teacher. Then relate the findings to your learning in this class and field placement and write an essay.

Specifically, you want to write what you learned from the research studies; how those studies are related to theories that we learned in class; and how they are applied in real classroom settings.

The essay should include the following 5 parts:

1. Introduction
2. Clear summary of the research studies
3. Application of theories (at least 2 learning and development theories)
4. Classroom implications
5. Your personal reflection and conclusion

Length of the paper: at least 4 pages

Margin: 1 inch (top, bottom, right, and left)

Font size: 12

Space: double space
