

- Do you think you did not do enough writing in high school?
 - Is writing a struggle for you?
 - Is your ACT score in English below 22?
- Do you want to become more confident about your writing skills?

If this sounds like you and you want to try to enroll in English 113 in the fall semester, you are encouraged to request English 113, section 01 or section 12-- College Writing Workshop.

These sections will help you develop the building blocks of expository writing: formulating a thesis, organizing paragraphs, refining style, and improving research techniques. You will learn the power of writing by constructing essays that respond to college-level reading assignments, that offer solid arguments in support of your ideas, and that are smart about grammar, mechanics, and format. Your instructor will help you understand what Hope professors are looking for in college writing assignments.

These sections combine lecture and workshop and focus on writing fundamentals. In addition to classroom discussion, you will spend some class sessions in the computer lab drafting, revising, and critiquing your papers. You will have opportunities to work one-on-one with the professor to polish your “works in progress” throughout the semester and submit them in a portfolio at the end of the semester.

These sections are limited to students with ACT scores in English below 22.

- Do you think you did not do enough writing in high school?
 - Is writing a struggle for you?
 - Is your ACT score in English below 22?
- Do you want to become more confident about your writing skills?

If this sounds like you and you want to try to enroll in English 113 in the fall semester, you are encouraged to request English 113, section 01 or section 12-- College Writing Workshop.

These sections will help you develop the building blocks of expository writing: formulating a thesis, organizing paragraphs, refining style, and improving research techniques. You will learn the power of writing by constructing essays that respond to college-level reading assignments, that offer solid arguments in support of your ideas, and that are smart about grammar, mechanics, and format. Your instructor will help you understand what Hope professors are looking for in college writing assignments.

These sections combine lecture and workshop and focus on writing fundamentals. In addition to classroom discussion, you will spend some class sessions in the computer lab drafting, revising, and critiquing your papers. You will have opportunities to work one-on-one with the professor to polish your “works in progress” throughout the semester and submit them in a portfolio at the end of the semester.

These sections are limited to students with ACT scores in English below 22.